  President’s Report
Dr. Glen Jones stated that he currently has five principal areas of focus for the university: 1. connecting with the campus community; 2. building an administrative team; 3. development and implementation of strong marketing and public relations plan;
4. continue building long-term relationships between Henderson and its various constituencies; and 5. campus beautification.

Dr. Jones stated that the Provost/VPAA search committee has been finalized and will consist of eight members (four faculty, one department chair, two administrators, and a representative from University Relations and Admissions). Dr. Jones will act as chair of the search committee. The search committee will begin meeting shortly after fall break. Additionally, he mentioned that a search for a Director of Marketing is also currently in progress, and that the university must rapidly assemble a competent marketing team and develop and implement a strong marketing program. Dr. Jones also mentioned that he will be spending considerable time on promoting and marketing the university; where initially, this process will involve establishment of long-term relationships with community members and potential donors, and include the solicitation of their thoughts, ideas, and perception regarding the university. Dr. Jones stated that he is working to continue to build connections with the different campus constituencies, and will be hosting a forum with Staff Senate in order to address the needs and concerns of the staff. Dr. Jones also mentioned that he will continue spending considerable time touring campus facilities and discussing needs and ideas for improvement of the university with all campus constituencies.

Dr. Jones mentioned that the university must promote the academic quality of its programs, and that there will be some changes to the university’s website structure and presentation in order to help facilitate this process. Additionally, he stated that Henderson will continue to improve and enhance its relationship with National Park Community College (NPCC) in Hot Springs, including the possible development of 2 + 2 articulation agreements with NPCC in multiple degree areas.

Dr. Jones stated that progress will continue to be made regarding the aesthetics of campus, including the hiring of a landscape architect and the establishment of the Campus Landscape Committee that will assist in the process. Additionally, Dr. Jones mentioned that external funding would be sought for assistance in financing campus beautification and landscaping projects.

Dr. Jones stated that he is currently working to insure that Henderson is positioned properly with respect to performance funding; to this extent, a high emphasis will be placed on enrollment management. Presently, the university is also conducting a student survey of two student cohorts: one cohort that chose to attend Henderson, and a second cohort that chose not to attend the university in order to determine why their respective decisions were made. Dr. Jones also mentioned that he wants to work with faculty in an attempt to increase recruitment by bringing groups of potential students to campus in order to visit with faculty.

Dr. Jones stated that he hopes a portion of the Garrison Center will be renovated for Student Government Association offices, and that a private workout room for faculty and staff will be maintained in the Garrison Center.

Dr. Jones stated that enrollment for the fall 2012 semester will probably be flat, though the exact figures have not been determined at this point.

He also mentioned that new lighting has been erected outside of Newberry Hall, and that the large parking lot directly west of Arkansas Hall will receive lighting in the very near future.
