

SOCIOLOGY, HUMAN SERVICES/SOCIAL WORK and CRIMINAL JUSTICE (Updated May, 2019)

Dr. Joyce Shepherd, Chair; Dr. Rigsby, Dr. Trubitt,, Dr. Hansen, Dr. Valentine, Dr. Birch, Dr. Kelly

The Department of Sociology, Human Services/ Social Work and Criminal Justice offers a broad range of curriculum designed to prepare students for career employment, graduate school and professionals in professions of human service, and human and social justice. The department offers a range of Baccalaureate degrees as well as several minors and a growing number of certificates that will enhance the educational experience. Opportunities exist for practicum work and independent study as well. Our faculty are dedicated to scholarly excellence and the success of our students. We encourage students to think, analyze, create, understand, and discover society, social issues, diversity, change and to develop a respect for all knowledge and all living things.

Sociology

We offer a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology as well as a minor. Sociology is the systematic study of the social behavior of individuals as well as the working of social groups, organizations, cultures and societies. Study in sociology provides a scientific perspective for studying the effects of cultural and social forces on individuals, groups, and institutions. Students who major in sociology are given the opportunity to study in the field of family and gender relations, gerontology, crime and delinquency, as well as sociological theory, research methodology, and statistics. Graduates are prepared for positions in industry, government, private and public agencies, and in education and research organizations.

Sociology is an especially appropriate major or minor for students entering any of the helping professions. For those who wish to become professional sociologists, an excellent preparation for graduate school is available.

Human Services/Social Work

The Bachelor of Science in Social Work was approved by Arkansas Department of Higher Education in August 2018. This program has not been accredited. Henderson is taking the first steps to get the program accredited and we are unsure of the timeline.

We offer a Bachelor of Science degree in Human Services as well as a minor. Students selecting the Human Services /Social Work major typically desire positions in institutions, private and public, which provide direct services to diverse groups in our society. Graduates are prepared for positions in industry, government, private and public agencies, and in education and research organizations. They will be confronting the human consequences of problems such as crime, poverty, alcoholism, child abuse, and discrimination. The curriculum includes required and elective courses, advising, and a supervised field experience in one or more human service agencies. Graduates will also have the choice of pursuing advanced study in fields such as social work, administration, counseling, psychology, and sociology.

Criminal Justice

We offer a Bachelor of Arts (with two options of study), and a Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice. In addition we offer a minor in criminal justice, a certificate in criminal justice and a certificate in forensic science. The Criminal Justice profession seeks to encompass the preservation and protection of social order in a free society. It includes principles such as democracy, law, civil liberties, and procedural processes safeguarding citizens against intimidation, oppression and crime. The curriculum is based upon the University's liberal arts core and is designed to prepare students for higher education and entering careers in criminal justice. We focus upon helping students achieve: knowledge and reasoning, the integration of ability and skills, professional conduct and ethics, and a vision for the future of the profession that can adapt as society does.

In addition the department of Sociology, Human Services/Social Work, and Criminal Justice offers certificates in gerontology and minors in the fields of anthropology, gerontology and human diversity.

The Department of Sociology, Human Services/Social Work, and Criminal Justice and the Department of Family and Consumer Sciences jointly administer an interdisciplinary minor in child and family dynamics. Contact persons for this program are Dr. Joyce Shepherd, chair of sociology, human services/social work, and criminal justice (shepherj@hsu.edu).

A minor for the Bachelor of Arts degree requires at least 12 semester hours, at least three of which must be at the Senior College level.

Criminal Justice

The mission of the Criminal Justice Program at Henderson State University is to advance theory, practice, and cause of criminal justice through scholarship, teaching, training, and technical assistance in responding to the needs of students, criminal justice professionals, and society. The criminal justice programs are administered through the Department of Sociology and Human Services, Ellis College of Arts and Sciences. The Department offers a minor in Criminal Justice and a major, Bachelor of Arts in Criminal Justice. Each program is embedded in a liberal arts education.

Bachelor of Arts in Criminal Justice

The academic program for the criminal justice major requires 120 credit hours. The Department's goal for the criminal justice major program is being committed to high quality instruction.

The major program consists of two options. Option I follows an academic classroom model, preparing the student for either entry to employment, or for advanced graduate or professional studies. This option requires a 15 hour class component with a required writing intensive capstone in which the student will exemplify the knowledge of and application of theory, conceptualization, research methods, operationalization, observations, and data processing and analysis in a directed project followed by an oral presentation. Option II provides the student with an alternative service learning experience that includes a 15 hour field practicum enhancing employability. This option prepares the student for entry level criminal justice jobs.

Option I is designed to provide those students wishing to pursue a graduate or other professional degree with a firm foundation in research design, statistics, and sociological and criminological theory.

Option II is designed to provide those wishing to directly enter a criminal justice career with the professional skills to analyze criminal justice and criminological issues through academic and applied settings.

Human Diversity Minor

The undergraduate minor in human diversity provides students with a broad intellectual framework for understanding common human experience and differences. Courses fulfilling this requirement foster respect for the diversity of people and cultures within the bond of humankind. This minor examines differences and similarities in individual human behavior as related to issues such as race, ethnicity, gender, gender roles, creed, religion, culture, age, body type, physical conditions, sexual orientation, learning differences, social skills differences, intelligence level, regional differences, language, dialect, socioeconomic status, and other areas of individual and group differences.

The minor is jointly administered by the departments of Psychology and Sociology. Students are required to take 18 hours of coursework including Human Diversity (PSY 2373); Racial and Cultural Minorities (SOC 2193); Social Psychology (either SOC 3143 or PSY 3063 — although we normally stress the deep differences between these two classes, for purposes of this minor either provides a useful foundation for considering interactions with diverse people); and nine hours of electives.

Core Required Courses

Hours

PSY 2373	Human Diversity.....	3
SOC/HS/SW 2193	Racial and Cultural Minorities.....	3
PSY 3063	Social Psychology or
SOC 3143	Social Psychology.....	3
	Diversity Electives.....	9
	Total Minor Requirements.....	18

Nine hours of electives from the following, including at least three hours from Group A:

Group A: Broader Diversity Issues

ANT4053/SOC4063	World Cultures
COM 3413	Female/Male Communication
EDU 4493	Global Studies
GEO 2163	World Geography
PHI 3023	Religions of the World
PSY 2023	Abnormal Psychology
PSY 3043	Cross-Cultural Psychology
SOC 4263	Stratification and Poverty
SOC/HS/SW 4293	Sex and Gender
SOC/SW/HS 4383	Social Gerontology

Group B: Specialized Diversity Issues

ENG 4483	Acquisition of English as a Second Language
FRE 3223	French Culture and Civilization
GEO 3153	Geography of Latin America
GER 3223	German Culture and Civilization
HIS 4333	American Women's History
PSY 2263	Developmental Psychology
PSY 3113	Personality
SOC/HS/SW 4443	Human Services for the Aged
SPA 3623	Civilization and Culture of Latin America
SPE 3013	Psychology of the Exceptional Child or any non-Western Culture course not in Group A

Classes used to meet the requirements of this minor may not also count toward major requirements. To promote exposure to a variety of perspectives on diversity issues, no more than nine of the 18 hours may come from a single discipline. Psychology and sociology students may not use classes from their respective majors to count toward the electives for this minor. Because studies in human diversity should include interaction with one's fellow human beings, no coursework completed by distance learning (correspondence or Internet) may count toward this minor.
